

WILSON REGRETS DEATH OF BOLDT

"A Man of Singular Genius and Usefulness," Says
President.

FUNERAL HELD TO-DAY

Hotel Men Mourn Waldorf Proprietor as a Leader
Among Them.

President Wilson, Mayor Mitchell, ex-Gov. Brown of Maryland, Vincent Astor, Dr. Andrew D. White, H. H. Westinghouse, President Schurman of Cornell, Fire Commissioner Adamson, Charles M. Schwab, George F. Baker—these were but a few of the hundreds throughout the country who yesterday sent telegrams and letters to George C. Boldt, Jr., now proprietor of the Waldorf-Astoria, to express their sympathy upon hearing of the death of George C. Boldt, whose funeral takes place this morning.

The President's telegram follows: "George C. Boldt, Jr., Waldorf-Astoria Hotel." "I do not express my deepest and sincerest sympathy with you in your great bereavement."

"The death of Mr. Boldt," Mayor Mitchell's letter of sympathy says, "has been a great loss to the city and to the country, in the country—which I believe will not be easily filled. It was not only that he came to be known as the best hotel man, but his worth to the country, his public spirit and his helpful willingness at all times to cooperate in important civic affairs related to him, the sincere regard of his fellow citizens."

Sir Thomas Lipton cabled: "Deeply regret to learn death of my old and esteemed friend Mr. Boldt. Please convey my most sincere and heartfelt sympathy."

"THOMAS LIPTON."

Hotel Men Express Regard.

To the individual members of the city and State associations of hotel men the death of Mr. Boldt's death was received quite as if each had sustained a personal loss. A special meeting of the executive committee of the Association of Hotel Men of New York City was called to take action upon the death of Mr. Boldt, who was one of the founders and for many years president of the association.

The executive committee adopted the following resolutions of sympathy: "Whereas in the death of George C. Boldt, Jr., a man of singular genius and usefulness has been lost; and whereas the hotel fraternities throughout the country have lost a leader, loved by his fellow men, who by his courage, adherence to high standards, his business efficiency and his broad prophetic vision had done so much to bring our vocation to its present high place among the great business activities of the world; and whereas our nation have lost a citizen who always took a broad and intelligent interest in all movements for the public welfare and gave to them his generous support; therefore, we hereby resolve to extend to the bereaved family the deepest sympathy and to place on record this memorial to the deceased friend in appreciation of his splendid character, of his late ability and of his enduring achievements."

Other Pallbearers.

Besides the honorary pallbearers listed in this Sun yesterday the following friends of Mr. Boldt have been added: Commodore F. G. Bourne, J. G. White, George T. Wilson, Emerson McMillin and Charles B. Alexander.

Mr. C. Bingham for almost a score of years chief organizer of the Waldorf, looked up Chief Inspector Max Schmittberger yesterday to see about funeral arrangements.

"I suppose there'll be no objection, Inspector," began the engineer, "to having the funeral pass up Madison avenue to the church?"

"Madison avenue—hell!" cried the chief inspector, thumping his desk.
